RAJYA SABHA

The following Bills were introduced in the Rajya Sabha on the 25th July, 1997:—

I

BILL No. XXIV OF 1997

A Bill further to amend the Forest (Conservation) Act, 1980.

BE it enacted by Parliament in the Forty-eighth Year of the Republic of India as follows:—

1. This Act may be called the Forest (Conservation) Amendment Act, 1997.

Short title.

26 of 1980.

2. In section 2 of the Forest (Conservation) Act, 1980 (hereinafter referred to as the principal Act), after clause (iv), the following proviso shall be added, namely:—

Amendment of section 2.

“Provided that if the Chief Conservator of Forest of the State is convinced that diversion of forest land or clearing of naturally grown trees is essential and unavoidable for construction of roads, laying drinking water pipelines, or of telegraph, telephone or electrical wires over or under ground, for the benefit of general public, he may after evaluating the damages and recovering the compensation from the Department/Agency, be it central or state, award permission and submit the details to the Principal Chief conservator of the Forest.

3. In section 4 of the principal Act, for sub-section (1), the following sub-section shall be substituted, namely:—

Amendment of section 4.

“(1) The Central Government in Consultation with the State Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, make rules for carrying out the provision of this Act.”

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The Forest (Conservation) Act, 1980 provides that any forest land or any portion thereof if used for non-forest purpose or falling of naturally grown trees requires approval of the Principal Chief Conservator of forest. Such approvals are delayed inordinately resulting in hardships and inconvenience to specifically Adivasis conventionally residing around the forest areas. Supplies of life sustaining drugs and foodgrains have hampered in past resulting in deaths of the Indian citizens. Therefore it is essential that the State Governments should have limited authority in approving and completing such projects, which are beneficial to general public.

Hence this Bill.

SATISH PRADHAN.

II

BILL No. XXVI OF 1997

A Bill further to amend the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973.

BE it enacted by Parliament in the Forty-eighth Year of the Republic of India as follows:—

- 2 of 1974.
1. This Act may be called The Code of Criminal Procedure (Amendment) Act, 1997. Short title.
 2. In section 200 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (hereinafter referred to as the principal Act), after the second proviso, the following provisos shall be inserted, namely:— Amendment of section 200.

Provided also that—

 - (a) a complaint filed under this section by any complainant shall name the opposite party against whom the complaint is filed as “respondent” and not as an “accused”, and if the Magistrate issues summons to the respondent, the respondent may appear either personally or through an authorized agent/advocate; and
 - (b) if the Magistrate comes to a conclusion that a case is made out and frames charges, the word “respondent” shall be replaced by the word “accused”, and there upon the accused shall make personal appearance if so directed.
 3. In section 204 of the principal Act,— Amendment of section 204.
 - (a) for sub-section (1), the following sub-section shall be substituted namely:—

“(1) If in the opinion of a Magistrate taking cognizance of an offence, there is sufficient ground for proceeding, and the case appears to be a summons-case or a warrant-case, he shall issue summons for the attendance of the respondent, either in person or through an authorised agent/advocate.”
 - (b) in sub-sections (2) and (3), the words “or warrant” shall be omitted.
 - (c) sub-section (5) shall be omitted.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

Under the Code of Criminal Procedure, a complaint can be registered by two methods, one by a Police Complaint and another by a Private Complaint. Normally it is seen that in the Private complaint, when a Magistrate takes cognizance, he issues a summons and the opposite party even before a case is made out is called an "Accused" and is made to stand along with other Hardcore Criminals who are undergoing trial for various heinous offences. Such a person as a matter of procedure, is arrested and is asked to take Bail or sent to Custody. When after detailed hearing, the Magistrate were to come to the conclusion that no charge is made out, the respectability of the person is tarnished and the damage has been done. It is seen that now a days it has become very common practice to file a private complaint and get summons issued to people to get publicity and unfortunately, in some cases, the respectable Magistrates have also become a victim to such publicities. The people at large are now threatened and are being blackmailed. If this is not curbed, it will cause infringement of the personal rights and liberties. While it is not the intention to save any individual innocent under the said guise should not be harassed. Hence it is just and necessary to amend and delete some of the sections in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The people of Uttarakhand consisting of eight hill districts of Uttar Pradesh and Khumbha Mela area of Haridwar district have made significant contribution in the freedom struggle of India and they are contributing a lot in building the modern India by serving the Armed Forces, Police and Civil Administration. In fact many of these people are holding very high positions in the Union and State Governments. But unfortunately even after all these Uttarakhand remains a backward region. Its economy is called Money Order economy and has very little to boast of. As such the specific social and economic problems of the people of this region require special treatment in democratic and independent India. The problems of the people of this region have been accumulating and the people continue to suffer. This part of the country has been neglected by successive Governments.

Whereas the changes in the administrative set up under the Constitution were found necessary for the sustained growth and development of the people of Himachal Pradesh and Arunachal Pradesh besides other areas in North-Eastern India, this hilly part of the country has always been overlooked though it has its own strategic importance.

In view of this, the Uttar Pradesh State Legislature also felt necessary to adopt a resolution to carve out a separate State of Uttarakhand to end the neglect of the people of this region.

Hence, it is being felt that the formation of a separate hill State of Uttarakhand is essential to ensure a balanced development of this region so that the rich intellectual potential of the people of this region and even richer material resources available with unique advantage of environment are duly exploited by an appropriate democratic set-up to unleash the creative energies of the people of Uttarakhand. It is, therefore, necessary to establish the State of Uttarakhand with its legislature, executive and the judiciary like other Indian States, in accordance with the Constitution of India.

This Bill seeks to achieve the above objects.

SURESH PACHOURI

FINANCIAL MEMORANDUM

As a State, Uttarakhand will be entitled to a share in the income tax and additional excise duty of the Central Government. There will be some revenue receipts from the areas covered under the new State of Uttarakhand. However, there may be a gap between the revenue receipts and expenditure. The Central Government will have to provide such quantum of grants-in-aid to the new State as may be necessary by suitably amending the provisions of the Constitution (Distribution of Revenue) Order, 1985, in exercise of the powers given by clause 23 of the Bill. No exact estimate can be given about the amount likely to be given to the State as grants-in-aid but it is estimated that it may involve expenditure to the tune of rupees two hundred crores.

MEMORANDUM REGARDING DELEGATED LEGISLATION

Clause 23 of the Bill empowers the President to determine by order the grant-in-aid to the new State and its share in Central taxes and amend for that purpose the relevant provisions of the Additional Duties of Excise (Goods of Special Importance) Act, 1957, the Union Duties of Excise (Distribution) Act, 1979, the Estate Duty (Distribution) Act, 1962, and the Constitution (Distribution of Revenue) Order, 1985.

Clause 36 of the Bill empowers the Central Government to make rules to give effect to the provisions of the Bill. The rules, if any, will be confined to matters of procedure and other matters of minor detail relating to the enforcement of the various provisions included in the Bill.

The rules to be made will relate to matters of details only and as such the delegation of legislative power is of a normal character.

Power to make rules.

8. The Central Government, may, by notification in the Official Gazette, make rules for carrying out the purposes of this Act.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

There are a large number of distilleries through out the country producing liquor for human consumption and alcohol and other spirituous preparations for industrial use. These distilleries use various chemicals and other raw materials for manufacturing their products. In the process of manufacturing they discharge toxic fumes in the air which pollute the air making the environment nearly poisonous. The people who live nearby such distilleries develop various respiratory diseases including the dreaded cancer. Their life becomes a hell because they have to live under unbearable odour of the toxic fumes. Similarly these units also discharge untreated chemical effluents in the running water of drains which ultimately go into the nearby rivers and pollute these rivers endangering the species in such rivers particularly the fish. It is, therefore, necessary to prevent these distilleries from polluting the environment.

Accordingly, it has been suggested in this Bill that the Central and State Governments will fix norms for the working of these distilleries and also fix the level of toxic fumes and chemical effluents which may be discharged in the air and water by them. The Bill provides for installation of anti-pollution system by the distilleries within the stipulated period. Distilleries which violate these provisions must get exemplary punishment.

Hence this Bill.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

People from all sections of the society deposit their hard earned money in banks in various accounts, schemes etc. in the hope that the money will remain safe with the banks and they will get good interest also on their money. But there is no centralised authority for the proper auditing of the accounts of the banking companies. As such every banking company has its own system of auditing its accounts which is not effective and at time leads to manipulation and corruption. Recent security scam which rocked the nation wherein banking companies were defrauded of thousands of crores of rupees by some share brokers and others with the connivance of the insiders made the mockery of the self auditing system in banks. All this can be prevented if the auditing of banking companies is handed over to the Constitutional authority of the Comptroller and Auditor-General of India in view of the powers given under article 149 of the Constitution of India to the Parliament in this regard.

Hence this Bill.

FINANCIAL MEMORANDUM

Clause 3 of the Bill provides that Comptroller and Auditor-General of India shall audit the accounts of all the banking companies. As a result of it more manpower has to be provided to the Comptroller and Auditor-General to cope with this extra work. Though it is not possible to precisely estimate the expenditure but it is estimated that a recurring expenditure of rupees five crores per annum will be involved from the Consolidated Fund of India.

Non recurring expenditure of rupees fifty lakhs would also be involved.

(2) It extends to the whole of India.

Definitions.

2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires,—

(b) “agriculture” includes poultry, dairy farming, orchards, rearing of animals and farming;

3. (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force the appropriate Government shall ensure that seventy percent of the total electricity generated within its territorial jurisdiction including the electricity generated by foreign companies shall be supplied to the agriculture sector, rural households, village and cottage industries.

(2) The appropriate Government shall, within its territorial jurisdiction,—

(a) allocate the quantum of electricity to the villages in such manner as may be prescribed;

Overriding effect of the Act.

5. The Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, make rules for carrying out the purposes of this Act.

Power to make rules.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

It is said that India lives in villages and it is true as more than seventy percent of our population lives in villages and earn its livelihood through agriculture, horticulture, rearing of animals, poultry and other village industries of various kinds. But unfortunately the major part of rural India lives in dark as most of the villages are yet to be electrified. Agriculture too is mainly dependent on monsoon. Even if there are tubewells, they do not function in the absence of regular power supply. In fact there is little power supply to rural areas. Major chunk of power generated in the country is consumed by cities. In fact thirty percent of the population living in cities is consuming almost the entire power generated in the country. This has resulted in the backwardness of the rural areas.

For desired results and to achieve progress, major portion of generated power has to be diverted to rural parts of the country that too according to the ratio of the population. Since seventy percent of the population is in villages and engaged in agriculture, seventy percent of the power should be supplied to the villages. This step will not only bring brightness in the villages but will also boost agricultural production which may enable us to export the foodgrains. If power is given to village industries more employment opportunities will be generated in villages which will retard the mad rush towards the cities. In fact this step will revolutionise our society.

Hence this Bill.

It is estimated that a sum of rupees five hundred crores may involve as recurring expenditure per annum.

No non-recurring expenditure is likely to be involved.

Power to make rules.

11. The Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, make rules for carrying out the purposes of this Act.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

Soon we are going to celebrate the golden jubilee of our independence and we must rejoice the occasion but unfortunately, even after five decades of independence, the regional imbalance in our country is still there. The economic disparity among various regions in the country has not only persisted but has also increased. This disparity has resulted in extreme poverty, hunger and backwardness. Even the Constitutional obligations set forth by the founding fathers of the Constitution are yet to be fulfilled. Article 371 of the Constitution provides for special provisions for the development of Maharashtra and Gujarat but the Vidarbha, Marathwada, Saurashtra and Kutch regions of these States are still most backward. Non development of the Vidarbha region has resulted in the demand for a separate state which shows the frustration of the people of the region.

Development of such regions should be our prime concern. Special steps should be taken at the National and state levels to secure rapid and accelerated development of the poverty stricken and backward regions in the areas of education, economy, agriculture and other fields to bring them at par with other developed regions of the country. This may be achieved by establishing an autonomous Authority for the purpose.

Hence this Bill.

BILL No. XXXIII OF 1997

A Bill further to amend the Press and Registration of Books Act, 1867.

BE it enacted by Parliament in the Forty-eighth Year of the Republic of India as follows:—

1. This Act may be called the Press and Registration of Books (Amendment) Act, 1997.

Short title.

2. After section 3 of the Press and Registration of Books Act, 1867, the following section shall be inserted, namely:—

Insertion of new section
3A.

“3A. Notwithstanding anything contained in this Act or in any other law for the time being in force no person, who is not a citizen of India, shall own, publish, print or edit or in any way associate with the ownership, publishing, printing or editing of any paper, newspaper or a book in India.”

Ownership, publishing,
etc. of newspapers and books by Indian
citizens only.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

Recently it has been proposed that foreign media may be allowed to have access to the Indian market. The proposal, if accepted, will adversely affect the economic viability of Indian newspapers and Indian news agencies. It also constitutes a grave danger to the independence, sovereignty and integrity of India as the foreign media will have no commitment to our Constitution.

Besides, entry of foreign media will encourage invasion of Western culture and Western values. It will destroy our traditions and ethos. Moreover foreign media will try to shape public opinion and policies to suit the national interest of their country.

U.S.A. and France have not allowed foreign media to enter into domestic market. There is no reason why India should allow entry of foreign media in Indian market.

The Press Council of India has also opposed entry of foreign media in the Indian market hence it is necessary to ban the entry of foreign media in the Indian market.

Hence this Bill.

BILL NO. XXXIV OF 1997

A Bill to provide for the compulsory teaching of Sanskrit language in schools.

BE it enacted by Parliament in the Forty-eighth Year of the Republic of India as follows:—

1. (1) This Act may be called the Compulsory Teaching of Sanskrit Language in Schools Act, 1997.

Short title and commencement.

(2) It shall come into force on such date as the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, appoint.

2. The Sanskrit language shall be taught as a compulsory subject in all schools from such class onwards as may be determined by the concerned State Government or the Union territory administration.

Compulsory teaching of Sanskrit language in Schools.

3. The total expenditure to be incurred on the implementation of the provisions of this Act shall be shared equally by the Central Government and the respective State Governments.

Central Government and State Government to share the expenditure.

4. The Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, make rules for carrying out the provisions of this Act.

Power to make rules.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

Sanskrit language reflects the soul of India. It is sad that a language which is the vehicle of Indian thoughts of millions, contains literature of great eminence and a language which is finest expression of Indian minds has suffered utter neglect. Ignorance of Sanskrit has developed in younger generations alienation from our cultural traditions.

The learning of Sanskrit helps in character building. It leads to grammatic purity in other languages. It helps in building vocabulary and facilitates learning the art of eloquence. Sanskrit is essential for understanding of Ayurveda which has now been adopted in many countries in Europe, U.S.A. and Australia. In other words learning of Sanskrit develops the personality of an individual.

It has, therefore, become necessary that more efforts should be made to make the younger generation aware of the importance of Sanskrit in the life of India. Teaching of Sanskrit in Schools will enable the younger generation to enrich their personality and the noble traditions and thoughts of Indians.

Hence this Bill.

V. N. GADGIL.

FINANCIAL MEMORANDUM

Clause 2 of the Bill provides for the compulsory teaching of Sanskrit language in Schools. Clause 3 provides that the total expenditure incurred on the implementation of the provisions of this Bill shall be borne by the Central Government and State Government equally. The Bill, therefore, if enacted, would involve expenditure from the Consolidated Fund of India. Although, the exact amount of expenditure cannot be estimated at this stage, a recurring expenditure of rupees ten crore per annum is likely to be involved.

No non-recurring expenditure is likely to be involved.

MEMORANDUM REGARDING DELEGATED LEGISLATION

Clause 4 of the Bill empowers the Central Government to frame rules for carrying out the purposes of the Bill. As the rules relate to matters of detail only, the delegation of legislative power is of a normal character.

Andhra Pradesh is a big State. The Coastal regions are far away from Hyderabad. The people are facing hardship to file cases in the High Court located at Hyderabad. There has been a persistent demand for setting up a permanent bench of the High Court of Andhra Pradesh at Visakhapatnam, the densely populated port city with many industrial set ups. Saving.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The concept of an independent secretariat of Parliament is an essential adjunct of Parliamentary democracy. The significance of this conceptualisation of a secretariat independent of the executive was fully realised in the 1920s when the then Central Legislative Assembly passed unanimously a resolution moved by Pandit Motilal Nehru and seconded by Lala Lajpat Rai. Later, President Vithalbhai Patel ceaselessly endeavoured in this direction.

The independent position of the secretariats of the Houses of Parliament was recognised by the makers of our Constitution when they considered it necessary to incorporate a separate and exclusive article (Art. 98) in the Constitution. This article envisages enactment by Parliament of a law to regulate the requirement and conditions of service of persons appointed to the secretariat staff of the House. The enactment of such a legislation is long overdue.

The unique position of the Rajya Sabha Secretariat demanding, as it does, a special sense of dedication and impartiality in the discharge of their duties, requires a broad-based institutional arrangement representing the House to be statutorily made available to assist the Chairman in watching and safeguarding the interests of the secretariat staff in the service of the House and its members. This institutional arrangement is sought to be made by providing a House Commission. The Bill provides for the establishment of such Commission and matters connected therewith.

SOM PAL.

FINANCIAL MEMORANDUM

Clause 3 of the Bill seeks to set up a Council of States Commission. Its members, other than the ex-officio Chairman of the Council of States, who is the Vice-President of India, are the members of the House who would be discharging their duties in relation to the Commission as members. The expenditure towards the payment of their TA/DA, if any, would be a part of the normal expenditure of the House. The increase in the expenditure, if any, as a result of setting up of the Council of States Commission would be a marginal one and that would not be possible to be quantified in specific terms at this stage.

MEMORANDUM REGARDING DELEGATED LEGISLATION

Clause 8 of the Bill seeks to confer the rule-making power on the Commission. The matters in respect of which such rules may be made are matters of procedure and administrative details. The delegation of legislative power is, therefore, of a normal character.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The Concept of an independent secretariat of Parliament is an essential adjunct of Parliamentary democracy. The significance of this conceptualisation of a secretariat independent of the Executive was fully realised in the 1920s when the then Central Legislative Assembly passed unanimously a resolution moved by Pandit Motilal Nehru and seconded by Lala Lajpat Rai. Later, President Vithalbhai Patel ceaselessly endeavoured in this direction.

The independent position of the secretariats of the Houses of Parliament was recognised by the makers of our Constitution when they considered it necessary to incorporate a separate and exclusive article (Art. 98) in the Constitution. This article envisages enactment by Parliament of a law to regulate the recruitment and conditions of service of persons appointed to the secretarial staff of the House. The enactment of such a legislation is long overdue.

The unique position of the Lok Sabha Secretariat demanding, as it does, a special sense of dedication and impartiality in the discharge of their duties, requires a broad-based institutional arrangement representing the House to be statutorily made available to assist the Speaker in watching and safeguarding the interests of the secretarial staff in the service of the House and its members. This institutional arrangement is sought to be made by providing a House Commission. The Bill provides for the establishment of such Commission and matters connected therewith.

SOM PAL.

FINANCIAL MEMORANDUM

Clause 3 of the Bill seeks to set up a House of the People Commission. Its members are the members of the House who would be discharging their duties in relation to the Commission as members. The expenditure towards the payment of their TA/DA, if any, would be a part of the normal expenditure of the House. The increase in the expenditure, if any, as a result of setting up of the House Commission would be a marginal one and that would not be possible to be quantified in specific terms at this stage.

MEMORANDUM REGARDING DELEGATED LEGISLATION

Clause 11 of the Bill seeks to confer the rule-making power on the Commission. The matters in respect of which such rules may be made are matters of procedure and administrative details. The delegation of legislative power is, therefore, of a normal character.

S.S. SOHONI,
Secretary-General.
